

Building Better Schools

There's been no word on whether Kindergarten will survive the government's cutbacks in 2020, and we believe the Ford government is making their decision on the future of Kindergarten soon.

We don't have a lot of time—our best chance is to build a big coalition to fight for Kindergarten and show Ford that cuts would be a mistake.

Can you take a minute right now to reach out to your school board trustees and ask them to help? With our tool, it's easy to do—click here.

In February, Doug Ford's Education Minister said that Kindergarten might not happen after this year. We know that Kindergarten cuts have been on the Ford government's radar, and we need to push hard to make sure our world-renowned program isn't torn down in the next budget.

The best way to do that is to pull together our allies and engage everyone who knows Kindergarten is important for our kids and their families. We have to fight to defend public education, and we need a coalition to do it.

Reach out to your local school trustees here and tell them why Kindergarten is important to you.

https://www.buildingbetterschools.ca/save\_kindergarten

-James

James Taylor

The Building Better Schools Campaign